KENTUCKY GAME LAWS

When, Where and Under What Circumstances You May Go Hunting.

Now that the season for the hunter is fast approaching, the newspaper offices are besieged with information as to the game laws of Kentucky.

Squirrels and rabbits are protected by the act of 1904, which makes it unlawful to kill them between September 15th and November 15th.

The Kentucky laws especially protect the quail, partridge and pheasant, which may be eaten only by the hunter and his family, and which under no circumstances may be caught or killed by means of a net, trap, box or snare, and then may not be shot except beginning with November 15th for the rest of the year. They are protected between January 1st and November 15th.

The woodcock is protected between February 1st and June 20. Wild geese and wild duck between April 1st and August 15th. The dove is protected between February 1st and August 1st.

The thrush, meadow lark, finch, martin, swallow, wood-pecker, oriole, red-bird, cat-bird, blue-bird, and all other song birds and birds that destroy insects are protected, except where they shall be destructive to the fruit or grain crops.

The penalties provided for violating the game laws are from $5 to $50 according to the offense.

BACHELORS Vs. OLD MAIDS.

The thought occurred to me the other day to figure out if I could with the aid of common sense and the surrounding environments, why it is that there are so many case hardened old bachelors in this who have never succumbed to the charms of the fair sex—so many of which inhabit this land of ours. These fellows have hardened their hearts and stiffened their necks for the past 35 or 40 years, withstanding every proposition from a feminine standpoint, and never thinking seriously of casting their lot with some fair maid who would make his home a little heaven on earth, and in later years their noble sons and daughters would bring honor and prestige to the family name.

But now, these same fellows, who might have been living a happy life, are sitting around the streets watching the pretty women go by, and haunching boys in the side barely out of his teens, telling him that "There's an opening" for him, when the man himself ought to be seeking after a chance, instead of putting such nonsense into the boy's head.

But the old gentleman feels as if its all up with him—he has passed the border line. He doesn't know any more how to court a girl than a hog knows how to fly. He's never had any experience along that line, and his awkwardness is painful to behold.

A man who has passed the age of 50 years and is still an old bachelor, has certainly had one or two things to happen to him during life. He must have been mighty timid and bashful in his young days, or else some girl has made him believe she thought the world and all of him and then cast him off after she had stolen his heart, leaving him a sad and dejected man, but much wiser in love affairs.

Bachelorhood may be a bliss to some men, but when it comes down to plain facts, such a state of living is little short of a nuisance because he has to sew on his own buttons, darn his own socks, and maybe cook sometimes. Not many days, the writer overheard a conversation between some girls, who were not very old and not exceedingly young. One of them exclaimed, "I wouldn't marry the best man on the face of the earth," and then another chimed in, "Thems my sentiments." I thought to myself right then, that I'd hate to be the man to pop the question to either of them if I didn't want to get a deal on my hands right there and then.

Some girls say that marriage never entered their mind, well maybe it didn't because it's been there all the time. There's not much use of a fellow being a bachelor in this country, if he has any inclination to "splice" and then the thing will be helped along by the young woman, if she knows the man is in earnest. Giving the devil his dues all along the line the thought of an old maid sitting in the corner snuffing ashes with a cat as her company, looms up in the distance of the minds vision. Most of them say they never loved and never was loved, a very apt answer to a question on that point from the male sex, but there are never many true believers of such stuff, because it is not woman's nature to be unkind and not loving, when an old maid gets past redemption into the realms of a man's love, the Lord forgive her dreary and desolate life.

A FORMER COLUMBIAN.

Mr. R. L. Purdy is moving this week into his new business house next to the new Masonic Temple. This is one of the prettiest business houses in the city, and naturally, Mr. Purdy, who is one of our most energetic business men is very proud of his new quarters. The building is 100 feet deep, 17 feet wide and two-story. Up stairs will be use for the stock, as well as most of the down-stairs, the rear of the lower room being used by the workmen. The stairway is well arranged and plenty of light is to be had. It is a modern structure, and is undoubtedly one of the most up-to-date and convenient harness, saddle and buggy establishments in Central Kentucky.—Marion Falcon.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT NARROWLY AVERTED

Last Sunday as Mrs. Bettie W. Butler and Mrs. Rose D. Starks were driving on the Campbellsville pike, near the residence of Mrs. McLean, the horse became frightened at an automobile, and after the machine passed, made a frantic effort to run away. After the ladies alighted, the horse began running and succeeded in overturning the vehicle two or three times, but was checked by Mr. J. L. McLean before any serious accident occurred.

MULES RUNAWAY.

A team of mules belonging to Mr. Harry Chilson, became frightened at a bicycle in front of the Hancock Hotel Friday morning and dashed up Burkesville street to the square, and then into the iron fence in front of Mrs. Bettie W. Buttler's residence. Fortunately the mules were but slightly injured.

The band boys will give an entertainment on Thanksgiving evening. An unusually good program will be prepared and the public is assured of a pleasant occasion.

King, of Millersburg, Ky., whose sermons throughout the meeting were unusually strong and forceful in the presentment of divine truths. The song service, led by Eld. Williams, was an excellent feature of the meeting and was much enjoyed by all. There were six additions and the membership as a whole greatly revived.

J. B. STOCKTON DEAD.

Mr. J. B. Stockton, a prominent druggist and stockman of Edmonton, Ky., passed away at that place last Wednesday, death being due to heart and stomach trouble. The deceased was seventy-two years of age and one of the most highly respected citizens of Metcalfe county. Mr. Stockton was an uncle of the late James A. Mitchell, who was a district attorney for the L. & N. railroad for several years prior to his death.

THANKS.

To the many friends of the News who met our representative at the Russell Circuit Court and contributed financial aid we tender our thanks. The patronage the paper gets from the many good citizens of Russell county, is worth much to its existence and we trust the paper will continue to merit the unstinted patronage it has received from the many good citizens of that county.

A MOVING MAN.

Frank Judd is one of the moving men of this section. Within the last eleven years he has removed to the state of Illinois thirteen times and twice to Missouri. He usually remains in the fore said states about three months but on several occasions has become dissatisfied and returned inside of three weeks. While here he longs for the rich rewards in the fertile sections of the above states, but after arriving there those charms seem to take flight and the love of the Old Kentucky Home with its clear waters and other attractions take possession of him, and he soon returns to his native heath.

DR. W. E. LESTER.

Dr. W. E. Lester, one of Russell county's best young men, who is thoroughly up in Dentistry has removed from Jamestown to Liberty where he is now practicing his profession. We have known Mr. Lester for several years and have that confidence in his ability, determination and adaptation to his profession to believe that he will prove himself of great value to any section of country in which he chooses to work. The people of Casey county will doubtless recognize the worth of his skill and his standing as a gentleman, on short notice.

CONCRETE WALKS.

Mr. J. O. Russell is having a concrete walk put down at his residence on Jamestown street. The work is being done by Mr. Carl Buchanan, of Greensburg.

Wm. Brooks is making a walk for Mr. Henry N. Miller in front of his property on Burkesville street.

We understand that a number of concrete walks will be made in the near future.

MAKING GOOD IN KANSAS.

The many friends in Adair county of Mr. Lee J. Taylor will be glad to learn that he has been elected principal of the Jefferson (Kansas) graded school at a nice salary. Mr. Taylor was a student in the Lindsay-Wilson, and afterwards taught the Gradyville public school. He is an honorable and upright young man, and will make a success in anything he undertakes.

THOROUGHBREDS SHIPPED TO ADAIR.

Mr. Wm. Coleman recently bought two thoroughbred mares and shipped them to this county where they will be broke and put to the ordinary use to which the general purpose horse is heir. They proved a little slow for the shifting scenes and uncertainties of the race course. They are now in the possession of Wm. Johnson and brother, near Gadberry.

GINSENG HARVESTED.

Messrs. A. H. Judd, Lester Dudgeon and W. H. Jones, of the Cane Valley section, dug about two hundred and fifty pounds of ginseng from their gardens last week. The market price on this amount is about $1500. These gentlemen have reset their gardens with two year old roots and next year is expected to be a record breaker in this line.

GOOD ROADS.

One of the main questions billed for discussion at the Farmers Institute on the 12 and 13th of November, in Columbia, is the good road proposition.

At that time unless all signs fail, the roads will be so bad that many will fail to get here. At any rate every member of the Fiscal Court and every other progressive citizen should attend.

TWENTY-FOUR HUNDRED PAPERS.

We are printing twenty-four hundred copies of the News. Allowing five readers to the copy, we are furnishing twelve thousand people with reading matter. Pretty good advertising medium isn't it?

Gov. J. C. W. Beckham will speak at the court-house in Columbia, Thursday, November 1st at 1 o'clock p. m.

ROCK CRUSHER TO BE STARTED.

Preparations Being Made to Have the Machine in Operation in a Few Days.

Last Monday morning a crew of hands were put to work making a road from Greensburg street to the stone quarry located on Allen Walker's property, and as soon as this is completed, the crusher will be placed in position, and work begun.

City Marshall Smith has charge of a force of hands getting out the stone, an engine has been secured from Mr. John Cummings of Sparkesville, and carpenters will be set to work at once making a rock bin.

The Council is evidently in earnest, and before many moons we may look for metal covered streets and square.

M. & F. COLLEGE.

"An hour with Haendel" was given by the young ladies of Mr. Ohlenmacher's Musical History class to the entire Musical department last Friday afternoon.

The biography of Haendel was written by Miss Alice Walker and read by Miss Elizabeth Rowe. Miss Betsey Hancock having written an article on the "Interpretation of the works of George Frederick Haendel" read it before the class. Mr. Ohlenmacher delighted his pupils with several of Haendel's most celebrated compositions, including his "Largo" from "Xerxes" and the famous "Dead March." The hour was pleasantly as well as profitably spent and all are looking forward with pleasure to "An hour with Scarlatti and Gluck" which will be given in two weeks.

GOOD INDICATION.

The investment by our conservative citizens in business and residence property is a very good indication of the faith of the citizenship in this city. Their advance has been gradual, but it has only been in keeping with the general prosperity that has been prevalent in our city. People who formerly resided here, on their return visits, are quick to see the change in conditions. There is an atmosphere of good times prevalent.

RECITAL.

A recital will be given in the Chapel of the Lindsay-Wilson School Saturday evening at 7:30 by Miss Grace Meek, assisted by Miss Hattie May Penland. If you enjoy an intellectual treat be present.

TEACHERS PAID.

The first installment of the county school teachers salaries were paid to them Saturday morning by County Superintendent, Mrs. Georgia R. Shelton.

The Sheriff of this county has given timely notice of what may be expected in the near future with all who fail to pay tax before the first of November. The Sheriff will not be to blame if you allow yourself to go on the delinquent list.

Eld. J. Q. Montgomery closed a ten nights meeting at Liberty last night and leaves to-morrow to begin a meeting in Lincoln county.—Casey County News.

The foundation for the Cane Valley bank has been put down, and as soon as the brick-kiln cools out work will begin in earnest.

Gov. Beckham will speak at the court-house Nov. 1, at 1 p. m.

LEAD POISONING.

Chas. Rounds, the painter, has been having an experience that he would gladly have sidetracked. The fumes of turpentine, carrying lead in dangerous quantities put him to sleep and doctors, nurses and friends failed to arouse him until after twenty-four hours. He is convalescent now and thinks he will be back to business again soon, yet he falls asleep easily and requires a vigorous shake to arouse him. To those who have seen the action of lead and turpentine on the human system there is no question as to the cause of his weakness.—California Courier.

Mr. Rounds is a son of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Rounds, of this city, and has a large acquaintance in Adair and Cumberland county.
